Solemnity, Memorial or Feast?

Solemnities hold the highest degree of Catholic celebrations. They celebrate the most important mysteries of the Catholic faith. Some commonly known Solemnities include Easter, Christmas, Pentecost, and Christ the King. Some days that honor Mary are also Solemnities, like the Assumption, the Immaculate Conception, and the Annunciation. Saints that played an important role in salvation history also are celebrated with a Solemnity (think Saint Joseph, Saint John the Baptist, and Saints Peter and Paul).

Some Solemnities are always celebrated on the same calendar date – for instance, Christmas will always be celebrated on December 25. Others will change from year to year based on other celebrations. For example, Pentecost is celebrated fifty days after Easter.

What does that mean for those of us who sit in the pews? Mass on a Solemnity will remind you a lot of a Sunday Mass. The Gloria is sung, three readings will be read, petitions will be offered, and in most cases, a specific preface will be prayed. Although Solemnities are beautiful parts of the Catholic liturgy, most of them are not holy days of obligation.

Some of the most well known feast days are the feasts of the apostles, the feast of the Holy Angels, the Visitation, the Presentation, and the Baptism of the Lord.

Memorials are of third importance in the liturgical calendar. They are classified as either obligatory or optional. Memorials are a celebration of the lives of saints. How did the Church decide which memorials were obligatory and which were optional? The Church only observes obligatory memorials for saints who are of "universal significance" in the liturgical calendar.

The Queenship of Mary

Memorial: August 22nd

+ The celebration of the "Queenship of Mary" was created by Pope Pius XII in 1954.

+ This memorial provides us with an opportunity to continue our celebration of the Assumption of Mary (celebrated on August 15) and to honor the special place that Mary has within the Communion of Saints.

+ The Memorial of the Queenship of Mary is a wonderful day to pray the Glorious Mysteries of the rosary, uniting our personal prayer with the prayer of the Church.
